FAVORS APPROVAL

Action of Senate District Committee on 16th Street Verdict.

AWAITING HOUSE COMMITTEE'S VIEWS

Awards of Benefits Increase Grand Total of District Deficit.

EXPENSIVE THOROUGHFARE

The District Commissioners have been officially informed that the Senate District committee is in favor of the approval of the verdict of the jury of condemnation in the matter of the opening of 16th street from Morris street to the District line. The fact that the Senate committee had decided upon the course stated was announced in The Star several days ago, and the information was informally given to the Commissioners when they appeared before the committee in regard to the union depot bill. It will be remembered that last summer the Commissioners decided to withhold their approval of the verdict of the jury until the matter could be placed before the committees of Congress. The reason for this was that the award of damages was so out of proportion to the small amount of benefits assessed. It was argued that only after the conditions surrounding the extension of the thoroughfare were studied and explained could this verdict, seemingly out of all proportion, be correctly understood. The acts providing for street extensions have of late years contained the proviso that unless the benefits to be assessed equaled one-half the damages awarded, the Commissioners might disapprove the findings of the jury. At a hearing on the 16th street matter last June the Commissioners stated their position. They said that while Congress had given no instructions in such matters, it was to be inferred that the clause in the acts fixing a proportion of benefits and damages should be taken as a guide and that Congress ex-pected the Commissioners to govern their power of approval or disapproval accordingly. In the case of 16th street the benefits fixed by the jury amount to only about one-seventh the amount of damages awarded. The Commissioners were there-fore unwilling to finally approve the verdict until the views of the District committees of Congress could be had.

A Step Forward.

The announcement by the Senate committee that it is in favor of approving the award is an important step toward the consummation of the 16th street project, which has been under discussion for so many years.

The citizens immediately and indirectly interested in the extension of the broad thoroughfare have been indefatigable in their efforts. They argued last summer that if the Commissioners should disap-prove the verdict of the jury of condemnation it was extremely doubtful whether a new jury could be summoned under the same act, and that probably the whole matter would have to be gone over again in Congress and a new bill introduced. It was said that years of work would be set at naught. The citizens further argued that the award of the jury was entirely fair, and that even though a second jury was se-cured the probabilities were that the same verdict would be returned. The importance of the opening of the street, it was stated, was such as to render any further extended delay of incalculable harm and hindrance to the development of a very important section of the District.

It was stated that every parcel of property that could properly be assessed for benefits had been so treated by the jury.

Much of the land for the constant Much of the land for the opening of the street had been dedicated. It was argued by a large number of citizens that the United States should bear the expense of opening 16th street, which will ultimately be the boulevard to the National Park in the Rock creek valley. While the private land to be affected by the opening was in need of a direct thoroughfare to the city, Beautiful Upright Pianos of the feet was not needed. It was claimed that finest class and medium-priced ones, leth street in being opened to Rock Creek Park takes on a national aspect and should > ernment. An Erroneous Statement.

The statement that the Commissioners are now at liberty to ask the courts for a final confirmation of the verdict of the jury is declared to be erroneous. The District authorities have as yet received no dom occur, so if you are interested word from the House District committee, of the jury under consideration. Not until the consent of that body has been secured will the Commissioners feel justified in asking for a confirmation.

When the consent of the House commit-tee is secured, if it be secured at all, and the verdict is confirmed, the Commissioners will then be confronted by another obstacle. They will have authority to draw warrants on the treasury for the payment of awards for the private land taken, but they have not a penny with which to begin the work of actually opening the street. When the estimates now pending were sent to Congress no provision for the physical opening of the thoroughfare could be con-sidered, as the question of approving the awards in the condemnation proceedings was yet in abeyance. It has been estimated that the cost of opening the street to the District line, the grading and macadamizing of a roadway eighty feet wide, together with the construction of a viaduct 500 feet long across Piney branch, will cost in the neighborhood of $366,000. The Commissioners will not take up the matter of estimating this amount to Congress until the views of the House District committeemen are obtained and the court has taken action. An Expensive Thoroughfare.

Sixteenth street will unquestionably prove to be the most expensive thoroughfare the District has ever opened. The damages awarded by the jury of condemnation amount to $729,:52.53. This amount will have to be paid entirely out of the District revenues. The benefits assessed by the jury amount to $108,834.'5. This latter sum will probably not be collected for several years yet. In the end the net cost to the years yet. In the end the net cost to the District for the extension now provided for will be $621,117.54. To this latter amount must be added the cost of opening the street and making it fit for travel, $306,000, making the total cost of the consummation of the proceedings recently instituted $987,-117.54, or in round numbers about $1.000.000. Of the $366,000 estimated as the cost of making the street available, the general government will pay one-half, according to the compact of 1878. The compact is re-garded as still holding good in regard to the improvement of streets, while it has been canceled in regard to paying for the land necessary for street extensions. land necessary for street extensions. If the payment of the $729,952.29 damages be made between now and June 30 next the District deficit, which, it is now estimated, will be $1,491,365.55, will be brought up to a grand total of $2,221,317.84. This will ultimately be reduced to the extent of the $108,834.75 assessed as benefits as rapidly as the assessments become due and are collected. The Commissioners are hopeful of securing some general legislation during this session of Congress which will take care of the deficit and also provide for the extraordinary improvements that are extraordinary improvements that are projected or are under way in the District.

Assistant Engineer's Report. Mr. W. P. Richards, assistant engineer in the engineer department, recently submitted a report to the Engineer Commissioner in regard to 16th street, in which he said: "The present direct extension of 16th street from Morris street to the District of Columbia, and for other purposes.
